The ERF technical team has kicked off the forty events scheduled for the coming months to disseminate the possibilities of citizen-driven energy communities, along with the benefits from the photovoltaic energy generation and shared self-consumption. The goal of these talks is to inform about the multiple possibilities that they offer, and to communicate the procedure to turn them into a reality.

After the first participatory talk, which took place in Sant Climent de Llobregat on May 21st, during the month of June 7 more talks are planned in municipalities such as Barberà del Vallès, Sant Joan Despí and Sant Adrià de Besòs, among others. The events are open to all citizens without prior registration.
